Workers Forum: The Dignity of Labor and Connecting with Catholic Social Teaching

Tuesday,
June 11th

11:30am – 2:15pm

The Catholic Lawyers Guild of Chicago has undertaken an initiative to highlight the long-standing Catholic teaching supporting the rights of workers. The goal of the forum is to educate and enlighten attorneys—and the larger community—about the meaning of Catholic social justice teaching and its' continuing relevance for workplace justice and labor advocacy.

The day will consist of three sessions:

SESSION 1: The History and Meaning of Catholic Social Teaching in Support of Worker Rights

Dan Graff, Director of the Higgins Labor Program at the Center for Social Concerns, University of Notre Dame

Adrienne Alexander, Director of Intergovernmental Affairs, AFSCME Council 31 and board member of the Catholic Labor Network

KEYNOTE: Leaders of UNITE HERE Local 1 and The “Hands Off Pants On” Campaign

Sarah Lyons, Communications Director, UNITE HERE Local 1
Roushaunda Williams, Executive Board of Illinois AFL-CIO

SESSION 3: Lawyers Representing Clients: The Influence Of Catholic Social Teaching

James J. Convery, Of Counsel, Laner Muchin for the management side

Thomas Geoghegan, partner, Despres Schwartz and Geoghegan Ltd. for the labor side.
